SHAKE-UP IN KEYSTONERS.

Since the announcement of the State Republican machine's plan to dictate the nominations for every State office broadsides of criticism have been coming from the press and public. Two or three months ago you could hear enthusiastic Republicans predicting that Howdy Ed Morrow would run all over anyone the Democrats could select for Governor, but since the plan of Boss Hert was made public many of these boosters have begun to back up on their predictions and they say privately that it is a mistake to select a hand-picked ticket in a hand-picked convention and expect the Republican voters or the public in general to take it to it. Just as Attorney W. W. Davies said last year in an address that the public would not go across the street to see a fixed horse race or sporting event; neither would they interest themselves in a fixed political primary or machine-made ticket. This applies in all its force to the Republican prospects in Kentucky and the ticket of the Democratic party selected by the people will sweep the State next November.

Labor and fraternal organizations are busy adopting resolutions denouncing the fee system just inaugurated at the City Hospital under the Republican reform administration, and citizens on all sides are bitterly condemning the unheard-of procedure. Every patient is requested to pay $1.83 a day, which is higher than the ward rate of Norton Infirmary, St. Joseph's Infirmary and others of our institutions, and you can not avoid payment of that fee at our hospital unless you testify that you are a pauper. How many of Louisville's poor or in moderate circumstances will humiliate themselves or family by pleading for a pauper's treatment? And this hospital was built by the citizens of Louisville at the cost of a million dollars for the poor and needy of Louisville, nor was it stipulated in the bond issue carried by the voters that a fee of $1.83 or one cent should be exacted from the patients. The City Hospital is maintained from a tax rate of approximately ten cents on every hundred dollars worth of taxable property, which this year yields nearly if not $300,000. Yet patients are to be brought to add to this enormous fund. Dr. Tuley, the Superintendent under the reform administration, is sojourning in Florida for a month and the hospital is under the management of the Assistant Superintendent, who until recently was a Deputy Sheriff. What a beautiful thing form is!

Wednesday afternoon's papers gave the public a shock for a minute when the headlines were read. They told of a big shakeup in the police force, and one thought for a minute that that meant we were going to get rid of the present Keystone performers and get real policemen in their places. Disappointment came after reading further though. It was only a shifting of the "yap" motormen and conductors from one district to another, and the shift didn't worry any of our holdup men and burglars now sojourning in our midst, as they kept right on sandbagging people and burglarizing the homes. Furthermore, not wishing to conflict with the 1 o'clock curfew law, which was passed to lighten the work of our police force, the highwayman performed some in the daylight, a lady being robbed during noon hour at Library Place, the same as if the latter was a country road. Of course the bold bad purse-snatcher wasn't caught, as he left no track, the police being on the ground, this handicapping the ex-motormen and conductors. These columns tipped off Capt. Smyser's finish four weeks ago, it being said that he was too close to Sheriff Ross, and the City Hall has declared war on the Sheriff's police. The Board of Works will have its chance for the Republican nomination for Mayor.

Here goes another tip and you can bet the kitchen furniture on it, as Bert Collier says: Last August near Mayor Smith said all kinds of unkind things about the racing game here and in an interview with his pet organ, the Louisville Herald, said: "Racing brought its train of gamblers, Dago Gentles, Mississippi Bills and scarlet women." On Sunday, September 22, the Herald told gleefully how the Board of Works was tearing up the Fourth avenue race track south of Oak to heckle the race patrons in going on street cars, and furthermore intimated that all would be searched for draft cards. In addition itate patriots, the Herald said, were tearing down the race advertisements, etc. None of this will happen this year. The Board of Works will not tear up the streets, hate citizens won't tear down racing cards, and the tip is given here that Mayor Smith will not say a word about Mississippi Bill, Dago Gentle, etc. There's a reason, as the advertisers say, for

A. T. Hert, the National Republican Committeeman from Kentucky and the big boss in Louisville Republican politics, has become one of the purchasers of Kentucky's race tracks. The present administration does not believe in reform if its friends are affected.

It's up to the Board of Works to come across with another alibi for its $50,000 street vacuum cleaner. Monday night the cleaner fell from grace again and was a victim of its bad habits in picking up a lighted cigarette or cigar butt, which has earned it the title of the "hobo street cleaner." After shooting the butt, and despite the watchful eyes of the army of valets and attendants, the machine caught on fire, this being the fourth offense. The fire department was called to save it, and one of the firemen remarked it would not be a bad idea to attach a fire apparatus to the hobo cleaner, as it would save time and trouble and maybe save the board. Many strangers seeing the army of cleaners and the noisy machine coming along have concluded a parade was being staged, and secure a nice point of vantage to see the sight. After it passes they are mystified as they then realize it wasn't a parade, but can not realize that it is supposed to be cleaning our streets. The only thing being cleaned is the pockets of the taxpayers.

Wonder whether it was Chief Petty or the Board of Safety which passed out the instructions for the Key-Bulletin to discontinue publishing details of the numerous robberies and holdups. In Democratic times the bulletin in telling of a robbery or holdup told who was robbed and where it occurred, etc. Now the bulletin camouflages, just saying, for instance that "Lieut. Hiram Cortness reports an automobile was stolen in the Sixth district, and no more. This keeps the newspapers from interviewing or giving the facts to the public, but it belies the statement of the near Sergeant and inquired why the Key-stoners that nothing would be kept from the public. Smith "stalled" a little by saying that reports of arrests would be given out, which will be very little as arrests of burglars or robbers are few and far between. In fact not one-tenth as many as arrests of the police Key-stoners.

The other day a negro woman was killed at Hancock and Breckinridge and it is told that a policeman who arrived on the scene early was informed and inquired why the negro slain on his clothes. The negro said: "Gwan away from here, white man, that's paint." And he got away with it. Among the promotions the other day was that of Patrolman Christman to Sergeant. Christman had been a Officer Christman swore out a warrant for breach of the peace against Josephine Mosby, a 200-pound colored lady who threatened to clean up with him. Now this brings up the question. Supposing Josephine goes on the war path in the weather we were out of luck as far as sleep was concerned. But that just made us fight all the harder, because we were fighting against the guy that was to blame for the whole thing—Kaiser Bill.

Private Savage is with the Eighteenth Field Artillery and has a brother, William Savage, who is located at St. Anzere, France, with a sanitary squad detachment. The Savage boys are grandsons of Mrs. Mary Savage, of West Chestnut street, and nephews of Attorney Pat Savage.

SACRED HEART RETREAT.
Tuesday was the Feast of the Passion, one of the great feasts of the Passionist order, and was marked by special religious observance at the Sacred Heart retreat, the solemn mass being celebrated in St. Agnes chapel. It is on this day the annual retreat for the members of this order begins, which closes next Tuesday. This retreat this year will be given by Father Leander Berliner, C. P., from Cincinnati.

FRIENDS GRIEVED.
Many friends and neighbors were grieved to learn the first of the week that Mrs. Matthew Corcoran and two children were ill at their home, 731 South Twenty-fourth street. The little ones were stricken with influenza, but as the attack was not severe it is hoped their illness will be of short duration.

"GIRLS OF 1776."
The pupils of Holy Rosary Academy will produce the "Girls of 1776" at the academy auditorium next Monday and Tuesday evenings, and those who have witnessed the rehearsals say that an enjoyable treat is in store for the audience. Tickets of admission are fifty cents.

ARCHBISHOP GLENNON

In Stirring Address at Knights of Columbus Washington's Birthday Celebration Eulogizes the Life and Principles of the Father of Our Country and Pleds For Loyalty to the Constitution.

The Kentucky Irish American gives much of its space this week to the able and patriotic address of the Most Rev. John J. Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis, and commends it to the careful perusal of its readers. After humorous reference to the tenacity of Col. P. H. Callahan and his telegrams, the distinguished prelate said:

I do not believe that our nation ought to be reconstructed. I do not believe the work is just the proper work to start and I am more and more convinced of it after hearing the eloquent classic pronounced by Governor McDemott. He told you he is against the work of reconstruction, and he has hinted that it would be a very serious matter to start to reconstruct this nation, that it is much better for us to hold what we have than to try to throw it away. I would have no objection to having some of these railroads reconstructed, but that is quite another and much more unimportant subject than to reconstruct America or the American nation.

I do not believe we ought to give up George Washington. I do not think our respect, our veneration, admiration and devotion to him, to his principles, and the Government he gave us and the country he founded should be set aside. I believe on this night, celebrating the anniversary of his natal day, that we ought to rededicate ourselves to the father of our country and the nation he founded and brought into being and to the principles he has set for our government. I think, amply sufficient for us while this nation of ours shall last, so shall last this nation that the father of our country has given us. What is it that he has given us? We should preserve? Well, it would be quite sufficient for me to put a definition around all that he has given us, our country, its work, its ways, its thoughts, its laws. This would take too long to recite. There is what you may call an ethical synonym for a nation. To mention a nation, today, and immediately a dominant idea arises in the mind expressing somehow the genius and the purposes and the ideals of the nation. Mention Germany—at least the Germany that was—and probably the ideal which arises in your mind is one of military power. That signifies to me the German nation stood for. Mention England. Well, possibly the commercial idea, that of commercial domination to rule the Seven Seas and to be the carrying power of all the nations that produce the commerce. Mention France. Well, probably the idea of pleasure, the art of living, making living an art and taking as much pleasure as they can out of life would be the dominant notion of France. Italy. Well, the first thought that arises to our minds would be the art—her cities, her palaces, her temples, her villas, her history.

Now comes America, the America of George Washington, our beloved land. Travel where you will and ask a serious-minded person who has some knowledge of other nations than his own, and you will not very many outside of America; go through the European cities, ask them what they think about America, what it stands for, and probably the first thought to the majority of the people you meet over there will be, "America! I will tell you. America stands for liberty, and sometimes they will mention the word and they will say, "Well" (like the child to her dolly) "they have liberty over there—at least they think they have!"

But that idea of liberty has had a very changing career over here. Their attempts at liberty have invariably resulted in anarchy, so the conservative people over there, when you mention liberty, would say, "Oh, liberty, anarchy, revolution! No," they say, "that is not what liberty is. They are thinking over there, right-minded people who stand for the welfare of humanity, that liberty is bound up with the French Revolution, with the Commune, with the Reign of Terror, with Robespierre and Marat and Danton, with street running with blood, with an unrestrained notions of liberty. So they say, "We want no liberty; you may claim it if you will, but it is scarcely worth while!" Even the church was very dubious concerning the principles of liberty because it was regarded as ordering the State into anarchy, anarchy, death. Hence liberty or liberalism, partly because of those who preached it, partly because of the results generally succeeding—anarchy and bloodshed, terrorism—liberalism was regarded as a dangerous thing, and yet, what be the prejudices of the people in Europe that were? What be the prejudices even of the Catholics of Europe that were? Yet we Americans, Catholics, Protestants and Jews, are united in saying, "Thank God for our liberty; thank God who is the Author of our liberty, and right gladly do we sing, "Long may our land be bright with Freedom's holy light; Protect us in our right, Great God, our King!"

Yes, we stand for liberty, for American liberty. Why do I say, and I say advisedly, American liberty? Not because liberty in its definition is bounded by the word "America" or "American," but because the liberty that we have here and that we know and that we an-joy is different in its conditions, its evolution, and in its surroundings from the ordinary idea and ordinary acceptance of liberty in Europe. Our liberty did not spring from the erection of barricades, nor from the guillotine, nor from the slaughter of our fellow citizens. Our liberty was not paraded by naked women and with the lust for blood and worshipping the Goddess of Reason.

Our liberty announced through the immortal document spoken of this evening, the Declaration of Independence, asserted by our people with all the arms, with all the force, with all the aggressiveness necessary for its definition, launched out on its career, not stained with the blood of our brothers, not stained with any blood except those who would seek to destroy it in our midst; lifted up before us as a beautiful vision, guided by some strong, true men, with George Washington leading, rising as a beautiful wagon, halloved all around and sanctified in the majesty of law.

It is liberty limited by reason and protected by just laws, that makes American liberty what it is. No man, no nation, no government, no sooner was our liberty established on the field of battle by the victories of our despised and poorly equipped troops who suffered privations through winter storms, than there arose around it the sanest, most well-balanced, and most constructive of right and destructive of wrong, the most important document for us and for humanity that has been written since the gospel of our beloved Saviour, the constitution of the United States. In that constitution there was, as I say, a balancing between the rights and the duties of the citizen and the laws that should be observed and these rights might be protected and these duties performed, a balancing between the legislative, executive and judicial functions of the departments of our nation. And that balancing, affecting liberty on the one hand and asserting law on the other, has so governed our people that we know what our liberties are, and we thank God that they are with us today under that instrument given us for our and their protection.

Now on these three departments created by our Government we stand while proclaiming our liberties as the one nation in all the world that can compel every act of the legislature, every law passed by even your municipality here, even under the laws passed by the Congress of the nation, every act of the supreme executive—we alone of all the nations of the world have the power to bring every one of these laws, every one of these acts under the review of the Supreme Court of the United States making the law supreme.

Not only have we civil liberty here, but we have religious liberty. That constitution says there shall be no established religion in our midst. But on the other hand, every one, the humblest, the lowliest, has a perfect right to the fullness of religious liberty and freedom of conscience. Now with some of the older religious bodies, with the Catholic church, for instance, there is an ideal which obtained, too, when the whole world was Catholic, or when a nation is Catholic today, if you will, it is philosophically and theologically correct, called the union of Church and State. They shall work together, but there shall be and is only an understanding and agreement between the two, a concordat, bringing the two together. The State officially acknowledging the Church and the Church officially acknowledging the State, supports it.

This ideal obtained in the long ago is impossible here and can not prevail for various reasons. First, we are not a Catholic country. If there was an established religion it would be some form of protestantism as was a fact before the Union; many of the States had established religions, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Virginia and some of the others. And secondly, the ideal for a Catholic nation might be union of Church and State, yet such a union is impossible here, and would also be undesirable, because from what we know of Catholic history this so-called union of the two together, when the State degenerates into a condition where instead of a free Church in a free State working together, it has been an omnipotent State with a State Church as a department thereof, such as has existed in Russia until a few days ago, when the State declared the appointment of Bishops and is supreme to decide points of doctrine as it is in England today.

Now such a condition, which has been struggled for by many States in the past in relation to the Catholic church, is absolutely abhorrent, because whether we are united officially with the State or not the Catholic church must preserve its integrity of doctrine and its free position; the free position it has to assert itself on all moral questions in that nation, whether it pleases the King or not. That is the mission of the Catholic church through all the ages, as you will Middle Ages, that when that condition prevailed of the union of Church and State the church was invariably fighting the King. She was fighting the King for the moral principle, fighting the King generally in defense of the rights of his people. And as with such mistakes before us, we Catholics realize how blessed our position is here in America, where there is no State church, and no domination over the church because there is no State church. And we thank God that we are today in America as Catholics the freest Catholics in all this free wide world of ours today. For, mark you well, there is no established church here, and while the Catholic church should not be and does not want to be one of the established churches, there is all through the history of Europe, this Government, such a delicacy and such a conscientious, if I may use the word, attitude governing freedom of worship that we Catholics know that we can follow the worship and doctrines and principles of the church without the slightest interference from the Government.

The Holy Father, the venter of unity, the Holy See, the White Shepherd, has the right and duty to speak to all his children. He speaks to American Catholics through the press, through his letters, through his encyclicals. While all through the history of Europe you will find evidence of impediments placed, not only between the Holy See and the Catholic people of the varied lands, never once in the history of America has there been the slightest impediment or obstacle put in the way of our Holy Father communicating with his spiritual children throughout the length and breadth of America.

And so, my dear friends, this country of ours, standing for civil and religious liberty, protecting us and balancing between our religious rights and our duties, protecting both by law founded on justice such a nation that has tested these laws and carried them out so faithfully during all these years, and has reached that measure of power to-day in all the world, need not have its form of government reconstructed. Let us stand where we were. But lately, it is but of yesterday, after our long isolation, whether it be for better or worse, we have officially entered the family of nations. And but a few months have passed since that official entrance, and we who are the youngest of the group of nations, we who are the youngest in entrance, are today really looked upon as at the head of the procession. The nations of the earth look to us, the youngest, as the dominant nation of the world today. And dominant not because of our arms, our ships, our navy, but because of our military power, not because of our commerce. No, not because of these very principles that we are discussing together; that we know what liberty means; that we have the giving of them to any nation that we desire to ask for them. And the peoples of the earth today are clamoring at the footstool of this nation's Government, saying, "Give us liberty, or we shall perish." America, save us, or we shall perish." And far from Armenia, all that is left of her is crying to us today for bread, for help, for men and women, help us to lift up those who are dying." Belgium thanks us that we have gone there to help her come back again to live and for liberty and hope. France asks us to reconstruct her cities and her forests. Germany and Austria come to us and say, "Teach us what democracy means or otherwise we, too, shall perish wholly from the earth." The nations today are surrounding us and begging us for the good things that are ours and which George Washington, the father of our country, gave us.

Mr. Wilson, our venerated President, our first citizen, has gone over there. Gone over there on a mission which some are criticizing, which some doubt the propriety of, the opportuneness of. Well, ladies and gentlemen, if Mr. Wilson had the doctrines that we are speaking of, if he has gone over there as the avatar and the upholder of justice and law, the standard bearer of the rights of humanity, then I say that for us and for the world, I do not think American light or liberty should be hid under an American bushel. I believe its liberty as in the New York harbor should enlighten the world. And we need not be ashamed of our liberties, our Government, our laws, or our principles. Neither should we be ashamed to send our chief citizen as an Ambassador to proclaim these things to the nations of the earth.

Yes, our place, our mission in the world, as they said of ancient Ireland, should be a nation of men and women, and we need not fear any league of nations, but if God's justice and God's law be taken away, if it be merely the expression of the individual greed of the individual nations, if it means to symbolize a pack of hounds in the chase to see who will be the victor, then a league of nations would be criminal; but with truth, justice and the light of God revealing itself to this old world of ours, if his commandments and his laws obtain, and if we, cultivating the liberty that belongs to the children of God, place our trust in Him, then God is still in his heaven and all is well on the earth.

SCORED BY DELKER.

A very unpleasant situation has been created in Owensboro by the action of the Y. M. C. A. in having appropriated to its use $10,000 of the United War Work Campaign fund, and this in violation of an agreement that the amount was to be but $3,000. This was done over the protest of Chairman F. H. Delker, who says in a public statement:

"I want the public to know that at a meeting of the Executive Board of the United War Work Campaign, held at the Y. M. C. A. on January 23, 1919, I voted against a resolution that passed by a majority of that board, which resolution in effect means that the Executive Board approves the local Y. M. C. A. receiving pro rata up to $10,000 out of the United War Work Campaign funds ($7,000 to pay a debt on the local Y. M. C. A. and $3,000 for current expenses of the local Y. M. C. A.). I feel that I would not be honest with the public if I failed to make this statement, after participating in the campaign to raise the funds and having the directing of solicitors under my charge. I fully understood myself, and told the solicitors and all others that I had the opportunity of telling that the Y. M. C. A. for local needs was only to partake up to $3,000 and not over that amount in any event, and I was informed before the campaign began by the highest official in the local Y. M. C. A. that they would participate in the fund up to $3,000 and not over that amount." This surprising action has caused many to express the opinion that it was fortunate for our soldier boys that the Owensboro Y. M. C. A. was not operating in France. Chairman Delker is a representative citizen and his action meets with public approval.

STATIONS BLESSED.

St. Charles Borromeo church was taxed to its capacity Sunday night with people anxious to witness the beautiful and impressive service of the blessing of the new stations. They were blessed by the Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue, who also preached a forceful and illuminating sermon. The sanctuary was filled by visiting priests and the ceremonies were concluded by benediction from the pastor, Rev. Charles P. Raffo. The stations, which are very handsome, are a memorial gift from Col. James P. Whallen in memory of his brother, the late Col. John Whallen. They are bas relief, 4x6 feet, except the double station, which is eight feet wide. Their frames are of regalio, a composition used for that purpose. The hanging is unique in this city, as every other frame contains two of the stations, making only five on each side of the church. The coloring is principally cream and gold, though delicate shades of other tones blend exquisitely. They are a distinct ornament to the church, as well as a silent reminder of the painful journey to Calvary.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Rev. Father John O'Connor, pastor of Holy Name church, will be the speaker of the evening at the St. Patrick's day celebration held under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Father O'Connor's stirring articles in the local press on the Irish question have attracted wide attention and many favorable notices, and an address by him on the subject of Ireland's future is sure to be a treat. The celebration, in addition to Father O'Connor's address, will consist of a programme of Irish music and song. It will take place on Monday evening, March 17, in Bertrand Hall, Sixth street, near Oak. The Committee of Arrangements are John H. Hennessy, Thomas Walsh, T. D. O'Leary, Mark Ryan, James J. McFigue, John M. Riley and John J. Barry.

LOSS TO CITY.

The many friends and acquaintances of Cornelius J. Murphy were greatly shocked to learn of his untimely death of pneumonia on Tuesday after an illness of a few days. He leaves a wife, who was Miss Julia Daven, of Louisville, and a little boy, seven years of age. He was a devout member of St. Louis Bertrand's church. The qualities which endeared him to everyone were his attractive personality and universal kindness. His modesty, simplicity of manner and genial disposition drew everyone to him, and his loss will be greatly felt, not only by his devoted family and his business associates, who held him in the highest esteem, but by all who knew him.

SISTER'S SILVER JUBILEE.

Last Saturday morning at the Sisters of Mercy convent on East Broadway the silver jubilee of Sister Elizabeth, of the order, was happily and religiously celebrated. The Rev. Edward O'Sullivan, C. P., from the Sacred Heart Retreat, was the celebrant of the mass, and the Rev. Xavier Sutton, C. P., preached the sermon. Sister Elizabeth's friends have been congratulating her all the week.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA.

PLEA FOR ERIN

Friends of Irish Freedom Hold Representative Convention at Philadelphia.

Cardinal Gibbons Presents Resolutions Appealing to Peace Congress.

Right of the Irish to Justice and Liberty Emphasized by All Speakers.

DEMAND PRESIDENT'S SUPPORT.

Last Saturday in Philadelphia assembled the greatest and most influential gathering of representatives and friends of freedom for Ireland in the history of America, the delegates coming from all classes and nearly every State in the Union. Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, of the New York Supreme Court, who presided, in opening the convention said:

"Unless the doctrine of self-determination be applied to Ireland there can be no just and permanent peace coming out of the work of the Peace Conference. When our great President laid down the fourteen points upon which peace was to be made, a just, permanent and permanent peace, he placed no restrictions upon the application of those doctrines. He said that self-determination was to be given to all peoples without condition or qualification. If the war just ending was fought only for the purpose of breaking down one form of militarism in order to establish more permanently another form of militarism, the war will not have brought about the end for which the people fought and bled and sacrificed, and war and a continuance of war instead of peace and permanent peace will be the necessary outcome of the settlement which fails to apply the doctrine of self-determination to all those who seek to be free."

The right of the Irish to liberty was emphasized by the Very Rev. Francis B. Maginnis, of Nassau, President of the Friends of Irish Freedom. Dr. Maginnis, who is Assistant General of the Carmelite Order, said: "The work before the convention of the Irish race is of supreme importance. Every day, every hour, every moment must be offered up on the altar of our country's freedom. Outside Ireland itself the solution of the problem that is so near to our hearts lies in America."

Delegates representing the friends of Irish freedom, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Clan-Na-Gael and other organizations that desire to free Ireland from British influence attended the convention, which ended Sunday. Cardinal Gibbons, United States Senator Borah, of Idaho; Senator-elect W. W. Borah, of Pennsylvania, and church dignitaries from many sections of the country were on the programme for addresses.

A resolution presented by Cardinal Gibbons urging the Peace Congress to apply to Ireland the doctrine of national self-determination and a declaration of principles demanding that if any league of nations be created all features which may infringe on the traditional American policy, including the Monroe Doctrine, shall be eliminated, were adopted. At the closing session of the convention of the Irish race in America. The declaration says a state of war exists between England and Ireland "which, in the interests of the peace of the world, the Peace Conference can not ignore."

The enthusiasm of the delegates by the prelate continued as numerous speakers seconded the resolutions. Among those who spoke in support of Ireland's freedom were the Rev. Norman Thomas, a Presbyterian minister of New York; Archbishop Messmer, Milwaukee; Rev. Joseph F. Kuntz, Philadelphia; James G. Miter, Protestant Episcopal clergyman, of Norfolk; Mrs. Mary McWhorter, head of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; Henry Goddard Leach, New York; Thomas A. Matthews, Providence, R. I.; National Secretary of the A. O. H., and Frank P. Walsh, of Kansas City. The convention rose to its feet and cheered several minutes when Rabbi Krauskopf said that President Wilson's declaration that small nations shall have the right of self-government "will die down, and not even President Wilson himself can recall it."

With the adoption of the Cardinal's resolution, Michael J. Ryan, Philadelphia, read the declaration of principles which was then drawn up by a committee representing every section of the United States.

In support of the movement to bring freedom to Ireland, the convention pledged itself to raise within six months $1,000,000, but before Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, of the New York Supreme Court, Chairman of the convention, completed the calling of a list of States and cities more than $1,250,000 had been pledged to the cause.

The Very Rev. Peter E. Maginnis, New York, was elected President of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

JUSTICE TO IRELAND.

Urging Ireland's claim in the name of Justice, recognizing and insisting on the truth set forth by the founders of our republic, that all Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and recalling that no other people have contributed more than those of Irish blood to the creation, the upbuilding, the development and the preservation and defense of our great country, the great Philadelphia Irish race convention says in the resolutions adopted:

"We point out that England has tried in every way to coerce or to persuade or to cajole the people of Ireland to give up their devotion to their national aspirations and tried them all in vain. Lloyd George, within the last few months, has been compelled to assert that Ireland is at present as much opposed to British rule as in the days of Cromwell.

"England was compelled, less than a century and a half ago, to recognize the independence of her colonies, and within the last year the efforts of our country saved England and her allies from total defeat at the hands of the Central Powers.

"The land to which England was thus compelled to do justice has just saved England in her hour of need. Let England now realize that justice to Ireland, which she has so long denied with grievous loss to Ireland, but also with great loss to herself, will now remove from her path the bitterest hostility which she has to encounter all over the world, and will convince mankind in general of the sincerity of her declarations when she says that she believes in liberty and justice for others as well as for herself.

"Upon the shoulders of our President and Congress rests in the last analysis the responsibility of the peace that shall be made. We urge them to act in accordance with the doctrines laid down on our behalf when we entered the war, and in accordance with the resolution recently adopted, almost unanimously by the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives, to the end that autocracy and militarism may be forever destroyed, and that the right of self-determination shall be given to all the peoples of the earth."

WANTS TO BE FREE.

When the venerable Cardinal Gibbons entered the Irish convention at Philadelphia there was a scene of enthusiasm and reverence such as has never been seen. Presenting the resolutions favoring freedom for Ireland the Cardinal said:

"I do not intend to make any formal speech. I trust that you will regard my age and consequent infirmity as a sufficient excuse, but I want to say to you that there is liberty in the air. The nations of the earth are clamoring for a just and righteous liberty, and if they are crying for liberty, why should not liberty-loving Ireland also join in this cry? Yes, Ireland wants to be free. She wants to breathe the air of pure liberty. She wants permission to carve out her own future destiny. She wants the right of developing her own resources. And we are here today to plead the cause of Ireland's sons and daughters, that they may stand erect, redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled on their own sacred soil."

FERTILE FIELD.

One of the local Keystone comedians, who acquired his knowledge as a sleuth as a country car conductor, is soliciting subscribers here for the A. P. A. Menace, the mud-gutter organ from Missouri. Here's a tip for the Menace and its Keystone agent. Why not give as a premium with each subscription the war record of the Junior Order and the other A. P. A. organizations? It won't require a very large publication.

NOT VOICE OF PEOPLE.

The Prohibitionists and paid reformers who are abusing those who question their high-handed methods entirely overlook the fact that not a single Legislature which ratified the amendment was ever elected on that issue and that the people have been deprived of a right to vote on the question. Neither the Democratic or Republican party in national sessions ever placed prohibition in their platforms, yet the hibition reformers force a subversive Congress to enact a prohibition law. Not a single member of the Kentucky Legislature was elected on a prohibition platform, yet that body indorsed prohibition. In California the people defeated prohibition, yet the Legislature overrode the people's wishes by ratifying the prohibition amendment. Just such methods as these create food for the Bolsheviki.

REPUBLICANS EMBARRASSED.

Republican party leaders in the United States Senate have practically committed the party to opposition to the League of Nations, while this attitude has been embarrassed by the one living former Republican President standing before the country, not only as the exponent of the treaty which President Wilson is bringing home with him, but as the originator of the idea itself. As the Senate now stands there are not enough votes in that body to ratify a treaty which would include the League of Nations proposition as enunciated in the rough draft which the President is bringing home. But there is an element in the Senate which is wobbling and which is waiting to hear from the "folks at home." If the treaty is ever ratified it will be because sentiment throughout the country forced the hands of the upper body. In the event of such a ratification, Washington believes, the Republican party will be in a still more embarrassed position because the initial opposition would have given President Wilson and his party the credit and prestige of having put over the programme in spite of the Republican opposition in the Senate.

William Howard Taft will be the logical candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency in the event of a ratification of the peace treaty, including the League of Nations provision as it now stands, by the United States Senate. In the event of a failure of the President to put through his new internationalism, William H. Borah, of Idaho, will loom into the limelight with an ascendancy which only his geographical location and his attitude on woman suffrage could dim. This is the opinion that prevails in Washington relative to the political values in the situation which has arisen over the storm of opposition and support for League of Nations idea. The Republican party is in an embarrassed position over the debate concerning the league and foresees the possibility of the league becoming the all-embracing issue of the coming political campaign.

Lent begins next Wednesday, March 5, and Easter Sunday comes April 20.

LENT.

The Lenten season begins next Wednesday with special services in all the Catholic churches, to be followed by the usual weekly devotions and evening services for the succeeding forty days. The Lenten regulations promulgated for this diocese by the Right Rev. Bishop O'Donnoghue are practically the same as those of the Holy Mother Church and are complied with. For Catholics this is an important period. For many this may be their last Lent on earth, and hence there should not be one who has not sought the grace of God. Compliance with the requirements of Holy Mother Church will be rewarded with manifold blessings. In the churches the order of exercises will be announced at the masses tomorrow.

OVERSEA REUNION.

Separated for nearly a year, during which time both were serving their country, John M. Tulley, veteran fire fighter and former Chief of the Louisville park police, met his son, John B. Tulley, in Le Havre, France. Young Tulley enlisted in April, 1918, and soon went to sea as a yeoman on the Tiger, engaged in transport duty. Shortly thereafter Chief Tulley became identified with Knights of Columbus work and went overseas. When the young sailor met his father in Le Havre he obtained a four-day furlough and the two celebrated their reunion.

LIVING WAGES FOR STREET RAILWAYS

RATE OF RETURN.

The function of a street railway is to give adequate and convenient service at the lowest practical cost consistent with reasonable wages and working conditions of employees and at the same time with a reasonable return only upon the actual value of the property devoted to the public service. In many cities of the country a request has been made of the municipal authorities for an increase of fares, due to the very great increase in the cost of operation. The cost of operation has advanced in a very rapid ratio, due to war conditions, and the high prices of food and all living expenses make it imperative that wages should be increased in order that employees may comfortably live. In many of the cities of the country the question is now being agitated for an increased fare above five cents. Some three hundred or more cities in this country have within the past twelve months increased their rates of fare in order to meet the necessarily growing expenses of the companies. It is quite apparent that unless a company which is devoid of watered securities is enabled to have sufficient revenue to meet its operating expenses and indeed to meet a return to the shareholders, such a company can not long survive. The result is that if an adequate return is not given to the street railways a poorer service necessarily follows and later on the company may have dire consequences thrust upon it. Under these circumstances it is not the part of prudence to consider a street railway or other public utility from the same standpoint of justice that would be extended to an individual? By this we do not mean to say that every company that asks for an increase should have it. On the contrary no increase should be granted unless it has been clearly demonstrated that efficiency of the service, the maintenance of the system, and a reasonable return to the security holders require it. The fact that a public utility asks for an increase of fares does not justify the increase being granted, but it is fair in all matters, provided a case is clearly proven of the justice of the demands, that such demands should be carefully weighed and justice done to all parties.—The New Era.

was quietly solemnized Friday evening, the Rev. Father Walsh, of Sacred Heart church, performing the ceremony. The contracting parties are well known and to their many friends this announcement will be a welcome surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Heller are now on their wedding trip and after March 15 will be at home at 648 South Thirtieth street.

INTERESTING MEETING.

At a meeting of Division 4, A. O. H., Monday evening in Bertrand Hall all phases of the present Irish question were discussed and the consensus of opinion was that if Ireland was not accorded justice by Great Britain the future would present a hopeless outlook. Attorney Thomas Walsh, Mark Ryan, T. J. Lang, Thomas Lynch and Michael O'Keefe all made interesting talks. Mr. O'Keefe told of the hardships of Irishmen during his time in Ireland, and said that he hoped President Wilson would present Ireland's claims at the Peace Conference.

IRISH REPUBLIC ENVOY.

Sean O'Cealligh has presented himself to the Peace Conference as "the accredited Envoy of the Provisional Government of the Irish Republic." O'Cealligh has sent to Premier Clemenceau, to Paul Dastas, Secretary General of the Peace Conference, and to each delegate, a letter in which he brings to their notice the claim of his "Government, in the name of the Irish nation, for international recognition of the independence of Ireland and for the admission of Ireland as a constituent member of the League of Nations." This communication was accompanied in each case by copies of the Irish declaration of independence of January 21 and of the message of greetings from the "nation of Ireland" to the rest of the world.

In his letter O'Cealligh states that Prof. de Vallera, Arthur Griffith and Count Plunkett have been delegated by the National Assembly to present a statement to the Peace Conference and to the League of Nations in the name of the Irish people. He asks a date be fixed for the reception of these men. Ever since it was declared the Irish would send delegates to the Peace Conference it has been generally understood that their credentials would come before the Committee on Credentials in the same manner as those of any other persons applying for recognition.

Sean O'Cealligh, who presented himself to the Peace Conference at Paris as an accredited Envoy of the Irish Government, was formerly in business and was Secretary of the Gaelic League. He was not prominent in the disorders on Easter Sunday, 1916, but was deported immediately after the Government had suppressed that rebellion. He was released late in December, 1916, and was rearrested in February, 1917, but was not detained very long. He was not placed under arrest last May, when many members of his party were placed in jail.

O'Cealligh is a member of the Dublin Corporation and was elected to Parliament on the Sinn Fein ticket in the recent general elections. He was a member of the delegation appointed to present the freedom of the city to President Wilson, and when no reply to the invitation to visit Dublin was received from Mr. Wilson, he obtained a passport to go to Paris to inquire why no answer had been sent. When he arrived in Paris he announced that he was a representative of the Irish Government and his action was approved by his party.

O'Cealligh was married last year to Miss Mary Ryan, professor of modern languages at the National University.

ATTRACTIVE AND DEVOTIONAL.

The Forty Hours' Devotion, which is one of the many spiritual feasts at St. Paul's, commences on Sunday, March 2, at 10 o'clock. The organist and well trained choir have arranged a suitable programme for the occasion and the singing of the litanies by the young men and boys of the sanctuary is always attractive and devotional.

THE DEAD SEA.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Tomorrow a class of 100 will receive the degrees at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Bardstown Council is preparing to initiate a large class on Sunday, March 2.

The fourth degree exemplification at Rochester was a success beyond all expectation.

The council at St. Joseph, Mo., contributed over 125 members to the war service.

The councils of Hamilton county will hold a joint initiation at Cincinnati next month.

Among the forty candidates initiated last week at Chillicothe were seven army officers.

New Albany Council had a delightful entertainment for its friends Thursday night, featured by a luncheon and smoker.

There will be a second degree exemplification at Syracuse on March 11, preparatory to conferring the major degree at a later date.

With employment offices established in the large cities of the Far West, the work of the Knights to bring together the jobless soldier and the manless job is well under way.

The Knights of Pasadena, Cal., have passed resolutions calling upon Congress to take such action as will help bring Ireland's just claim before the International Peace Conference.

San Francisco Council last week conferred the first degree on a large class of army officers and enlisted men as well as a number of sailors from the naval training station at Yerba Buena Island.

During the month of May the fourth degree will be conferred at Covington, the first exemplification ever given in Northern Kentucky. Already many applications have been filed and it is felt that the class will be a large one.

KNIGHTS WIN LAURELS. Never before in Louisville was there such a patriotic and brilliant observance of Washington's birthday as that of the Knights of Columbus, who devoted three days to the celebration in honor of the Father of Our Country.

The celebration began Friday evening with a children's dance at the club house, the little ones being dressed in Colonial costumes. They were directed by Miss Blanche Mitchell and entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. Saturday afternoon was given over to the regular soldiers' dance with the Daughters of Isabella as hosts for the matinee and the Louisville Council at night.

Saturday night the banquet was held at the Seelbach, attended by about 400 men and women, representing all creeds and exhibiting the true Catholic spirit. Col. P. H. Callahan presided as toastmaster and was brief and happy in his introductions. Many representative citizens accepted invitations and among those seated at the speakers' table were His Grace Archbishop John J. Glennon, of St. Louis; Right Rev. Bishop Denis O'Donoghue, Hon. Edward J. McDermott, Grand Knight Thomas D. Cline, Gen. Julius A. Penn, ex-Mayor Busch, Ben Wheeler, Willie L. Mapother, Joseph Burge, John W. Barr, State Deputy Cooper, George Nabers, Brother Benjamin and several others. The first speaker was ex-Lieut. Gov. McDermott, who paid eloquent tribute to the life and works of George Washington, making an earnest plea for an adherence to his advice and the constitution handed down from the fathers and founders of our Government, the best, safest and most enlightened known to mankind.

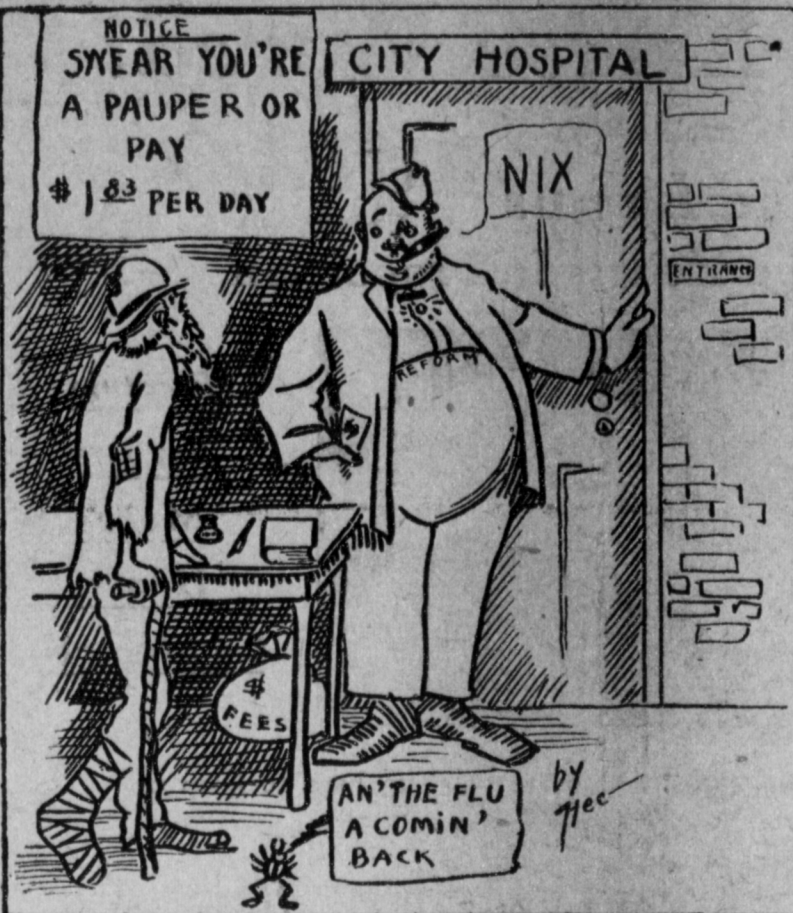

The feature of the evening was of course the address of Archbishop Glennon, the entire audience rising and giving the distinguished prelate a real Kentucky welcome when he was presented by Col. P. H. Callahan. In his eloquent and forcible address, which appears elsewhere in this issue, the Archbishop made pleasant allusions to the toastmaster and Gov. McDermott and held his hearers spellbound until his last word was uttered, when there was loud and continued applause.

The celebration was brought to a close Sunday afternoon when the degrees were conferred on a class of 130 candidates, the work being in charge of E. J. Kain, of St. Louis. This was the first initiation of the year and brings the membership to over 1,100. This is an auspicious beginning of the second year of Thomas D. Cline as Grand Knight of Louisville Council, and the addition of new members promises to be greater this year than last. The Louisville celebration of Washington's birthday was not surpassed by any city in the country.

MACKIN COUNCIL. At the meeting of Mackin Council Monday night the committee to meet other and similar committees from the Knights of Columbus and Trinity Council made a very elaborate report on the proposed consolidation of the three organizations, which plans for a Catholic center and the erection of a building to cost not less than $500,000, and thus providing a home for all Catholic societies.

Mackin will hold an initiation tomorrow afternoon which is expected to pass all previous records. The candidates and members of the council will go to holy communion at St. Cecilia's church at the 8 o'clock mass, after which they will breakfast at the club house. The initiation will take place at 2:30 in the afternoon, when the degree team will give one of the best exemplifications ever seen.

ST. WILLIAM'S. The good people of St. William's parish are arranging for their winter euchre and lotto party, to be held on Monday night, March 2, in the hall at Thirteenth and Oak. They say this will surpass any they have heretofore given and promise many nice awards and a really enjoyable evening.

Louisville's citizens build a million dollar hospital and pay in taxes annually nearly $300,000 for its maintenance, yet the Republican Reform Administration charges patients $1.83 per day.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week--General News Notes.

Division 3 will meet next Friday evening.

The County Board is meeting weekly to perfect arrangements for the St. Patrick's day celebration.

James Curran, of Division 4, is out again, but not entirely recovered from his recent accident.

Reserved seats for the St. Patrick's day entertainment can be secured from the division Secretaries.

The Hibernian Social Club realized quite a neat sum on its recent vaudeville and moving picture show.

Divisions everywhere are arranging for an appropriate observance of the birth of Robert Emmet on March 4.

M. N. Mahoney, of Division 3, will be the Grand Marshal of the big St. Patrick's day parade at Indianapolis.

The Hibernians of Portland, Ore., have prepared an elaborate programme for the anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet.

San Francisco Hibernians have begun the work of preparing for the entertainment of the national convention next July.

The Ladies' Auxiliary at St. Joseph, Mo., intends holding informal social meetings every month at the homes of the members until each has been visited.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Los Angeles had a fitting observance of their wartime work Monday night. It was the great event of the season and soldiers and sailors were present in numbers.

In accordance with the annual custom, the members of the order and the Ladies' Auxiliary will receive holy communion at St. Patrick's church on March 16, at the 6:30 o'clock mass.

The three divisions at Utica, now merged into one, with the Ladies' Auxiliary, will receive holy communion in a body at St. Patrick's church on March 17. All the divisions of the county will attend a special vesper service in the afternoon.

Patrick J. Lynch, Clerk of the Supreme Court of Indiana, has been named for Chairman for the Hibernian St. Patrick's day mass meeting at Indianapolis. Rev. John Gallagher, one of the most gifted orators among the young clergy of the State, will be the orator for the occasion.

A splendid record was made by Ladies' Auxiliary 1 of Los Angeles during the war. Its members subscribed to $40,500 worth of Liberty bonds, $2,836 worth of War Savings Stamps, gave $485 to the associated war workers and $481 to the Red Cross. In addition the members affiliated themselves with the Red Cross and donated hundreds of dollars worth of clothing and garments besides giving all their spare time.

ALUMNAE ADDRESS. Last Sunday afternoon a large meeting of the Holy Rosary Academy alumnae was held in the academy auditorium at Fourth and Park, when a very interesting programme was enjoyed. Musical numbers were artistically rendered by Misses Estelle Dougherty and Margaret Gott, both responding to encores.

Attorney Thomas Walsh delivered an address on the problems of commercial readjustment that was very instructive. Mr. Walsh pointed to the fact that it was not reconstruction, but readjustment that was needed. He said that foreign countries were the ones that were to be reconstructed, but that in the United States the problems to be worked out were the disposition and control of railroads, the supply and demand of food products and prohibition. Also a proper solution of the labor problem will be necessary to prevent unrest such as is creating so much disturbance in Europe.

CARD PARTY. The ladies of the Church of Our Lady, Thirty-fifth and Rudd, will have a euchre and lotto party Monday and Tuesday, afternoon and night, for the benefit of the church fund. Children will enjoy lotto in the afternoon and at night there will be euchre and lotto for the grown-ups. Refreshments will be served and handsome prizes awarded.

NOON SERVICE. Every day during this Lent the Way of the Cross or a sermon promptly at 12:15 p. m., lasting ten minutes, at St. Michael's church, 320 Brook street.
